Re: Recommendation for Faith and Justice series

Dear Ms. Graham:

It is with great pleasure that I offer this recommendation of the Faith and Justice series and the performance of Mr. Gary Anderson as Clarence Darrow. As part of the Faith and Justice presentation in Dillon, I was invited to introduce Clarence Darrow's Search for Justice. In addition, I was able to attend the presentation earlier in the week as part of the Continuing Legal Education for the Fifth Judicial District Bar Association. As a result I was afforded the opportunity to watch this wonderful show twice. The second showing was equally as fascinating as the first. As Mr. Anderson had been stricken with a particularly nasty cold between the performances, his second performance certainly reinforced his professionalism, commitment and dedication. He is a most enjoyable and charismatic person and I enjoyed working with him, even in such a minimal capacity as the introduction.

To be perfectly frank, I did not know what to expect when I went to the first performance as a seeker of CLE credits. I was truly impressed by the high quality of the performance and it has certainly tweaked an interest in the life of Mr. Darrow and, by virtue of the relationship between the two, the life of Mr. Bryan. In that regard I believe it exceeded my expectations.

Obviously I would recommend this program to other legal and civic organizations. I would visualize this program being presented at law schools, colleges and high schools, in order to impress upon the students the dedication and passion of these individuals in following their chosen paths. The historical significance of the events are particularly important to where this country is today and gives at least a small glimpse into the people that shaped the nation. My only regret is that I did not have the opportunity to attend the Life of William Jennings Bryant.

I would be happy to discuss the show with anyone interested in the presentation. Please accept my thanks for the fine entertainment.

Sincerely,

ERB & SUENRAM, PLLC
